PUBLIC SERVICE EMPLOYEE RELATIONS BOARDFOR FISCAL PERIOD ENDING MARCH 31, 1987

introduction

The Public Service Employee Relations Act, Revised Statutes of Alberta 1980, Chapter P-33 came into force on September 22, 1977, upon proclamation by Order in Council 965/77. It was amended in 1983 and again in 1985.

Section 17 of the statute embraces the right of an employee to be a member of and to participate in the lawful activities of a trade union, and to bargain collectively with an employer through a bargaining agent. The Act prescribes final and binding arbitration for the resolution of collective bargaining disputes and prohibits strike or lockout action. An employer and bargaining agent may at any time in their collective bargaining make joint application for the appointment of a mediator to assist in settling their dispute.

The legislation also requires that every collective agreement contain a procedure for the resolution of differences between the contracting parties as to the interpretation, application, operation or alleged contravention of their collective agreement.

The Public Service Employee Relations Act describes in considerable detail the basis upon which employees are to be included in or excluded from a bargaining unit of employees. In that regard Sections 9 and 21 of the Act confer authority upon the Public Service Employee Relations Board to make final and binding determinations where the bargaining agent and employer are unable to settle the matter of employee status for collective bargaining purposes.

Section 48 of the Act precludes the referral of certain items in dispute between the bargaining parties to arbitration. The Public Service Employee Relations Board has the responsibility and authority under the statute to make such determinations, a function that is an integral part of the Board's activities with respect to each application it receives seeking the establishment of an arbitration board for the resolution of a collective bargaining dispute.

Part 8 of the Act prohibits employees, trade unions and persons acting on their behalf from engaging in activities commonly referred to as unfair practices. In this part of the statute, the Public Service Employee Relations Board is given authority to inquire into complaints alleging such unfair practices and to impose remedial action when satisfied upon inquiry as to the substance of the complaint.

Although relatively low during the first and second quarters, the Board's activities increased markedly during the last half of the 1986-87 fiscal year, and, as reflected elsewhere in this report, required a greater number of hearing and caucus dates than experienced in the previous year. While applications for the establishment of arbitration boards to resolve collective bargaining disputes and applications for the certification of bargaining agents constituted the bulk of the Board's caseload, the Board was also called upon to make a variety of other and frequently complex determinations under its constituent statute. Nonetheless, the number of settlements reported to the Board as a result of direct negotiations or with the assistance of a mediator reflect serious and meaningful efforts by both bargaining agents and employers under the jurisdiction of the Public Service Employee Relations Act to resolve their contract disputes.

There were no amendments made to the Public Service Employee Relations Act during this reporting period, and further, there were no changes made in the composition of the Board. One vacant Board member position remains to be filled.

Several decisions issued by the Board during this year were referred to the courts for judicial review. Particulars with respect to those actions are recorded elsewhere in this report.

administration & personnel

The Public Service Employee Relations Board is responsible for the administration of the Public Service Employee Relations Act, and is established pursuant to Section 3 of the Act. The Chairman, Alternate Chairman and three members were all re-appointed in their respective capacities for two-year terms by Order in Council 704/85 dated October 16, 1985, effective November 2, 1985.

The Board has established rules of procedure in the form of administrative guides to govern the conduct of its business and proceedings before it. The Board's authority in this regard is set out in Section 6 of the Public Service Employee Relations Act.

significant cases

On December 7, 1984, the Alberta Court of Appeal issued its judgement in response to a Reference made to it by the Government of the Province of Alberta. In this Reference, the Court was asked for an opinion as to whether certain provisions in the Public Service Employee Relations Act interfered with the freedom of association of employees as dealt with particularly in Section 2 of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

An appeal from that judgement was launched by The Alberta Union of Provincial Employees and heard by the Supreme Court of Canada in the summer of 1985. The case was subsequently adjourned for decision and consolidated with a number of similar actions initiated in other parts of Canada for the purposes of disposition by the Supreme Court of Canada [Ref. re Pub. Service, etc. (Alta.) (1985) 2 W.W.R. 289]. No judgement was delivered during the course of this reporting period.
